Deque University

Build accessibility expertise across your team, one course at a time.

Deque University provides the most comprehensive, up-to-date, and trusted digital accessibility training on the web, serving hundreds of thousands of learners around the world.

Many teams lack the in-house expertise to effectively build, maintain, and consistently communicate on how to address accessibility. Without structured, role-specific training, they struggle to navigate complex standards, adapt to evolving requirements, and prepare for certifications like IAAP. This skills gap leads to inconsistent experiences, compliance risks, and inefficiencies—Deque (dee-cue) solves that.

Deque University provides a flexible, extensive curriculum so your team can build the skills they need—on their schedule. This helps create a consistent language and approach to digital accessibility across your organization so that everyone shares a strong foundation.

Deque University is built and maintained by a team of leading accessibility experts (many who contribute to the W3C and are IAAP certified), and is constantly updated as standards and regulations evolve. Learners get up-to-date training tailored to their needs and on-demand reference materials for every level and area of expertise in digital accessibility.

Build deep, role-specific accessibility expertise across your team—at scale.

> "Our team has gained knowledge and confidence on the breadth of accessibility when designing for web and mobile. More importantly, we gained inspiration on how we can advocate for users by being well-versed in accessibility for digital. Within 30 minutes into our first session, I knew the folks participating were engaged and that we'd want to continue working with Deque down the road."

Resolve accessibility questions fast with axe Assistant, our generative AI chatbot. It's trained on Deque University content and purpose-built for accessibility. Available via web, Slack, or Microsoft Teams, axe Assistant delivers accurate, expert-backed answers (even at a code level) to help you resolve issues, upskill your team and make confident decisions.

Upskill your team with flexible, self-paced training

Empower your team with comprehensive, self-paced, video courses (via web or SCORM). Deque's built-in learning paths bring together the right courses in the right order, covering general topics like web, document, and mobile app accessibility, as well as role-specific courses such as accessibility for designers and customer service. You can also create your own custom learning paths.

Get your organization IAAP-ready

Strengthen your organization's credibility and demonstrate commitment to accessibility as your team gets IAAP-certified. Deque University's expert-led courses help your team confidently prepare for exams such as CPACC, WAS, and ADS. Courses also count toward continuing education for existing certifications.

Manage your team's learning with ease

Simplify how you track your team's progress. Admins can monitor individual learner and group progress across modules, removing the hassle of manual tracking—with the ability to view in an HTML format or CSV download. Plus, streamline course access for your entire team with SSO or integrate directly with your existing learning management system via SCORM.

Deque University's multilingual training helps organizations learn in their native language and build accessibility expertise at scale.
