

Strategic consulting

Build and scale your digital accessibility initiatives with tailored guidance from experts.

The world's leading enterprises trust Deque (dee-cue) to help them build, scale, and sustain effective digital accessibility programs.

Many organizations struggle to move from reactive fixes to a proactive, scalable, enterprise-wide accessibility strategy, even with in-house accessibility expertise. Teams are navigating a complex, constantly evolving landscape without clear direction or plan, leading to inconsistencies, compliance and legal risks, as well as inefficiencies that impact not only user experience, but the effectiveness of the operation as a whole. Deque helps solve that.

Deque's strategic consultants partner with your organization to understand where you're at and help you build a sustainable plan to rapidly and efficiently mature your enterprise's digital accessibility practice. From program strategy, workflow optimization, and governance to design, development, and quality efficiencies, Deque's experts help you embed accessibility so your teams can be truly efficient.

Deque consultants bring 60+ years of combined experience working alongside the world's most complex organizations, across every region, industry type, and regulatory situation. We meet you where you are, whether you're just getting started or scaling a mature program, and provide tailored direction to accelerate progress and avoid costly missteps.

With Deque, accessibility isn't just a requirement—it becomes a strategic advantage.
